

CLAREMONT'S GUESTS.

Prison Congress Delegates Inspect the County Workhouse.

SOME OF THE CAUSES OF CRIME

And Police Troubles Discussed at the Morning Session.

THE PRISON WORK DONE BY THE C. L. S. C.

Yesterday there were only two sessions of the Prison Congress, the afternoon having been taken up in a visit to Claremont. The delegates were the guests of Superintendent Hill, and he made their stay at his institution decidedly more pleasant than the more numerous and common guests. Caterer Kennedy served an elegant dinner, which was thoroughly discussed by the delegates, who considered it a No. 1 prison fare. The institution was visited and inspected in its every department. Superintendent Hill received many complimentary notices in the manner in which he looks the workhouse going. At the morning session the congress discussed the causes of crime. The subject came up because of the report of the Standing Committee on Police, composed of the following gentlemen: Chairman, Charles E. Felton, ex-Superintendent of the House of Correction of Chicago; Benjamin Murphy, of Jersey City; Chief of Police R. W. McClung, of Chicago, and Joseph Golden, of Charleston, S. C.

SOME OF THE CAUSES OF CRIME.

The committee stated that politics, women and gamblers furnish the most trouble for the police officers and are apt to corrupt all police management in large cities. Crime is most prevalent where they are the most encouraged, and it is increasing in this country beyond the public belief, and statistics are not sufficient to determine its extent. In this country other causes favoring the increase of crime are the ease with which habitual criminals avoid arrest; the lightness of sentences; laxity of discipline in prisons; the present senseless views of the public and the acts of legislators as to systems of prison labor and its ease to the prisoner; the comfortable quarters and quality of food; their easy access of visitation, and the readiness with which a sympathetic public accepts as true the complaints of prisoners. Captain J. W. Pope, Commander of the United States Military Prison at Leavenworth, Kan., read an interesting paper on "Crime and Criminals in the American Army." A resolution was adopted that the French Government be asked to give a display of the workings of the Bertillon system of identification for criminals at the World's Fair in Chicago. An attempt was made to change the name of the Warden's Association of the United States and Canada to the International Association, but it failed.

THE CHAPLAIN'S ASSOCIATION MEETS.

In the afternoon there was a meeting at Carnegie Hall of the Chaplain's Association. The visit of the latter to Claremont left but a few chaplains to attend the meeting, those, however, who remained were amply repaid by foregoing the pleasures of the trip. Miss Kate F. Kimball, Secretary of the National Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle made an admirable address relative to the work of the Circle as an aid to prison reform. She reviewed at length the work of the Circle from its earliest attempt at work in prisons. This was in 1886 and the objective point was the Massachusetts Reformatory. The circle was introduced as a feature of the prison school system, a general office was established, a circle formed and the inmates were given the advantage of a higher course of study. The second development of the circle was at Canon City, Col., Rev. Mr. Humble, of Emporia, Kan., being the chief worker. Boise City, Idaho, followed and in turn came Sing Sing, N. Y., Lincoln, Neb., Charlestown, Mass., Bismark, Dak., and other places. After dwelling upon the nature of the Circle work and the results it has accomplished, Miss Kimball said:

ASSISTING THE PRISON SCHOOLS.

I know that many of our prisons are supplied with good schools, but it seems to me that the work of the C. L. S. C. can be of great value in supplementing the work of the schools. The C. L. S. C. provides a definite four years' course of reading. It introduces the student to a wide field of good literature, opening up courses of study which he may continue for years and attaches him to an organization entirely apart from the prison and to which he may turn as to a friend whether in prison or out of it.

The C. L. S. C. is a great fraternity and I am sure it is difficult for us to realize what many men mean to do with a mortified heart-broken man committed for a first offense and longing for some share in the work of the outside world. It is one more link to higher and better things to be a member of a great fraternity which treats its honor to the keeping of its members, which embraces young and old, rich and poor, those who have had college advantages and those who are trying to make up for the omissions of youth, and the spirit of the Chautauqua Circle, "Look Up and Live Up," which has done so much for the men and women out of their own peculiar trials and disappointments and throw them into work for others, this too reacts upon the prisoner and sends him out better fitted to serve his fellow men.

A letter was read from Rev. M. L. Gordon, a returned missionary from Japan, who spoke of the reforms being made in the prisons of that country.

PLENTY OF TIME FOR DEBATE.

The night session of the congress, in the lecture room of Carnegie Hall, was well attended. Ex-President Hayes presided. Mr. Spaulding offered a resolution that hereafter the time for each speaker be limited to 20 minutes each. The resolution was referred to the Executive Committee with the expressed desire of the congress that ample time for debate be allowed at the next congress.

Secretary Milligan announced that the paper on "Paying Prisons," by Charlton T. Lewis, of New Jersey, and the "History of Prison Architecture," by J. R. Thomas, of New York, would be read by title only and would be printed in the report of the proceedings.

W. M. F. Bond, of the Committee on Discharged Prisoners, stated that the report of the committee would be compiled from such information as had been gathered by a series of questions addressed to the Prison Associations of five States, and would be printed in the report of the proceedings. The first paper read was by Mrs. Ellen C. Johnson, Superintendent of the Reformatory Prison for Women, of Sherborn, Mass. It was on "Discipline in Female Prisons." The prison Mrs. Johnson has charge of has from 200 to 250 inmates. Mrs. Johnson opened by stating that the question of the aim and scope of prison discipline is a vexing one. Numberless theories have been advanced and the tide of sentiment has swung from one extreme to the other, but present opinion tends to make reform the objective point in prison work.

WHERE TO DRAW THE LINE.

The question is: Where shall the line be drawn between the justice which makes the law a terror to the evil doer and the mercy which renders the prisoners lot more attractive than the poverty and vice from which he was taken? How shall we secure the elevation of the individual criminal without trespassing on the rights of the law-abiding? Her theory was that sin is a moral disease, and he who attempts to cure it must recognize the principles which govern the treatment of bodily disease. A physician first diagnoses the case, then chooses and applies the remedies. "We," she said, "diagnose each case that we may know the nature of the moral disease indicated by the symptoms. We then select such remedies as experience teaches will be most effectual, and observe their operation and results, and increase, lessen or replace by others as circumstances direct. We aim to give each wretch the mental and moral treatment best suited to repress evil tendencies, to rouse aspirations after a better life, to move her to practical repentance and to convince her that justice and not revenge calls her to account for violated law."

MRS. JOHNSON'S WORK OUTLINED.

In conclusion Mrs. Johnson said that her principles may be summarized in three propositions: First—To make reformation and not punishment alone the main purpose of imprisonment. Second—To aim at the expulsion of the evil from the introduction of the good. Third—To remember that inside the prison as outside, in high life or low, human nature is one.

The next paper was by John H. Patterson, Warden of the State prison of Trenton, N. J., on the "Difficulties of the Parole System in State Prisons."

Z. H. Brockway, of Elmira, N. Y., stated that the parole system had worked successfully in New York. General Brinkerhoff said it was successful in Ohio.

Warden Cassidy, of the Eastern Penitentiary, Philadelphia, remarked: "What remedy would you suggest for the State of Pennsylvania, sandwiched in between New York and Ohio, which are the runaway parole prisoners from those States?"

General Brinkerhoff—Of all we have paroled we have only lost sight of ten or a dozen.

Warden Cassidy—But we get sight of them.

On motion of the Rev. F. W. Wines it was decided that the congress adjourn sine die to-night, instead of to-morrow night, as had been intended.

An invitation to visit the Morgana Reform School this afternoon was, on motion, accepted.

THE POLICE HAVE BEEN NOTIFIED.

Peddlers Going Through the Country Making False Representations.

It has come to our notice that speculators and peddlers are traveling through the country taking advantage of the people by representing themselves to be agents of the great sacrifice sale of tailor-made clothing, consisting of overcoats, suits for men and boys, that is now going on in the city of Pittsburg to prevent a destructive case of bankruptcy, which is at no other place than at the corner of Sixth avenue and Liberty street.

Mr. Morris E. Moses, who is the manager conducting the sale for the New York creditors, writes it distinctly understood that all the salesmen are instructed to refuse to sell to dealers, as the bargains are for the actual consumer and not for speculating purposes. For the benefit of strangers visiting Pittsburg this information is cheerfully given. We have no agents; no representatives, and no branch stores in any part of Pittsburg or surrounding country other than at 646 Liberty street, corner of Sixth avenue.
